

Portion Guide

Traditionally rich fruit cakes are cut into pieces measuring 1 inch x 1 inch, whilst sponge cake portions are usually larger, about 2 inch x 1 inch.

This means a sponge cake cuts into fewer portions than a similar sized fruit cake.

The illustration below aids in visualising the size of cake that you will require.

If I can be of any further help please don't hesitate to get in touch, my details are just below.